

The Miracle of Giving

This is much more important to your well-being than many believe.

This has to do with how the universe is actually structured. I know that the greed of the mediaeval church has given tithing a very bad name but it is, nonetheless, a very powerful principle in creating your wealth!

I could, perhaps, put in a couple of biblical quotes:

"Cast your bread upon the waters"

"As ye sow, so shall ye reap"

There are others along this vein. The Bible is, however, not the only source of such teachings: The Quoran, The Bahavad Gita, and many, many others including those most modern editions of the basic teachings, "Conversations with God" and "A Course in Miracles" expound this point.

Science, also, has a lot to say on this point. Quantum Theory shows that this is an active principle in the structure of the universe which anyone can use to manifest whatever they wish. Quantum Theory shows not only that anyone can use this principle but also that everyone does do so constantly. It behoves us, therefore, to enjoy a peaceful and happy life, to use this principle consciously and to choose wisely.

Now "giving" with strings attached, i.e. with expectations of a return on the investment is not giving. It is not quite useless, just very much less powerful than the real thing.

You see, it's like this:

"Giving" with strings attached is your declaration of lack! That is, you perceive a lack and try to make a deal, "If I give this, then I should receive that as a reward." The reason that it doesn't work very well is your own belief in lack. You use the Quantum Fields to determine the experience of lack and so the most that you can get out of this sort of "deal" is a reduction in lack. To eliminate lack, you must give up your belief in lack and, so, discontinue "purchasing" it.

Even worse, is giving with resentment. This will cost you more than you give! So, if you resent it, don't give.

What works, is the joy of giving, i.e. without thinking of any personal reward just 100% enjoy the experience itself.

This is casting your bread upon the waters.

The streams of the Quantum Flow will take this as your determination of how your World is to be and furnish your World accordingly.

Now, we've been taught to be judgemental. This is not helpful. We've been taught that giving one dollar is almost shameful and giving millions makes you a public hero. Fortunately, the universe will always ignore such "rules."

You see, it's not the amount which makes the difference, it's the feeling you put into it. Thankfulness is the most powerful feeling that you can put into any act of giving; thankfulness that you are allowed to give!

As above, so below: An active principle of the universe made clear in Quantum Physics (see www.theharmonychipstory.com chapter 4). Heaven makes no distinction according to how much you give, only in how you give, i.e. if it's real giving or simply making a deal.

By giving with thankfulness you are determining that thankfulness be the core experience of your life. Do you begin to see the mechanics of this now? Are you ready to experience a life in which every moment is filled with joy? It's simple cause and effect; thankfulness creates joyful experiences. The choice is yours. Use it wisely - or even if you don't each new moment is a completely free opportunity to choose anew. Keep practicing and it will come to you.

My very warmest regards

Karma
